PARIS, June 3.—Supported by almost incessant naval artillery barrages and royal air force fighters and bombers, the rear guard defenders of the French channel port of Dunkerque today kept on defending the city's fortified zone against massed German attackers.

Object of the Allied troops was to prevent the Germans from storming through a narrow, unflooded gap and to cover embarkation operations which continued throughout yesterday and last night.

According to military information in Paris, the Germans spent most of yesterday trying to prevent troop transports from nearing the shore in the Dunkerque area.

Mines Dropped Wildly

Mines of all kinds, particularly the magnetic type, it was stated, were "dropped wildly everywhere in the vicinity" while Germany's speedy motor torpedo boats attempted lightning attacks through the shoals.

A French military spokesman stated that many of these torpedo boats were sunk and that the German air force "daily is suffering increasing losses."

Highways in the northern part of the county are now quite extensively detoured. Because of the repairs to the bridge at Pulaski, a long detour is in effect to cross the Shenango river. With the closing of the New Wilmington to Farrel highway, Route 18, for rebuilding, this route also has been detoured via Mercer.

Nazis Fail To Halt Evacuation Of Allied Troops From Flanders

LONDON, June 3.—Attacking German forces now are only three miles from Dunkerque Beach, latest members of the rescued British expeditionary force disclosed on their arrival in London today.

"The French are fighting like mad and putting up a magnificent battle," the soldiers said.

French offensives against the Germans are frequent, they said.

LONDON, June 3.—Waves of German bombing planes—attacking 60 at a time—"indiscriminately" bombed the entire Dunkerque area today but failed to halt the procession of the last of the Allied troops from Flanders, British officials said.

As the day progressed the parade of vessels into English ports from Dunkerque, all laden to the gunwales with troops, took on once more the proportions of an armada.

The latest soldiers to arrive said they had to wait many hours for a favorable opportunity to get aboard the vessels, since they were under constant German shellfire and aerial attacks.

They said great fires were still raging at Dunkerque as a result of the German bombings and that small towns and villages in the zone were a "shambles."

Britain Prepares For Every Eventuality Down To Direct Invasion

CIVILIAN LIFE IS NOW CONTROLLED

All Aliens Are Compelled To Be In Their Homes By Midnight

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, June 3.—Prepared for every eventuality from Italian participation in the war to a direct invasion of England, the British government took over complete control of this country's civilian life today.

Military and police authorities established a virtual cordon around London. Guards were mounted at every junction and point of entry into the so-called "arterial roads" which link the capital with the provinces.

The guards were ruthless in their examinations of identity cards and driving licenses. The scrutiny was so thorough and comprehensive that ordinary traffic was dislocated. In some cases, trunk roads were jammed with waiting cars four miles deep.

Under new precautionary regulations which went into effect today, all aliens are compelled to be in their homes by midnight. Special

Under the floodlights at Taggart stadium, 600 New Castle school girls will perform in a colorful "June Festival" before a crowd which leaders hope will pack the stadium proper and overflow into the bleachers.

Three Queens

Three pretty girls, chosen to represent their schools, will be crowned as "queens" during the spectacular maneuvers. The queens, Catherine Lynch, Fern Riley and Betty Milliken, will be attended by lavishly-gowned attendants.

The outdoor show is primarily designed to impress the public with the importance and value of physical education work in the three schools.

Should a downpour break at the festival hour, the affair will be postponed until Tuesday evening.

Democrats Expect Roosevelt To Run

Third Term Race Appears Likely

Other Party Hopefuls Are Apparently Seeking Second Place

BARKLEY LIKELY PARLEY CHAIRMAN

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 3.—General assumption that President Roosevelt will be a third term candidate today sent other Democratic 1940 hopefuls scurrying apparently to win the vice presidential end of the ticket.

Congressional friends of Speaker William B. Bankhead, for instance, were urging that he not accept the anticipated job of keynoter and temporary chairman at the Democratic convention, which opens in Chicago July 15.

Alabama's Favorite Son

Bankhead is Alabama's "favorite son". He has expressed appreciation of the honor but declared himself a supporter of the president should Mr. Roosevelt elect to be a candidate again.

The Democratic committee on arrangements probably will be selected this week. This group will recommend names for keynoter and for permanent chairman of the Chicago convention. Bankhead has been accepted in Democratic circles as probable choice for keynoter and Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky has been most mentioned to wield the permanent gavel.

It was an interesting commentary on the Democratic political situation that Bankhead's backers were urging that he might do better by remaining in the background as Alabama's favorite son and making a serious run for the vice presidential nomination.

onstration presented by the Wilmington Chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

Inspection of the farm will be permissible at any time during the day from 10:00 until 4:00. A huge tent is being erected on the grounds to house the audience during the afternoon program.

The farm is located along the New Wilmington-Volant road, about four miles east of New Wilmington. A long lane leads from the main highway back to the farm, and a sign along the highway clearly marks this lane so there should be no difficulty for anyone to find the place.

Interesting Project

The project promises to be one of the most interesting agricultural engineering experiments ever conducted in this vicinity. It is true that the type of equipment installed has been tested and used on many other farms. Some of the appliances are in extensive use both in the homes and the farms of the country. In very few cases, however have the advantages of these appliances been definitely measured by what is almost laboratory technique. Daily readings of the electric meters on each piece of equipment, a complete record of the production and other observations are made, so that clear results can be secured after thorough use over a period of perhaps several years. The cooperating agencies feel that the results secured can be duplicated on any farm, since it was endeavored from the start to carry on the project under purely typical conditions.

While it is expected that hundreds of farmers will make up the majority of the audience, it is understood that representatives of manufacturers, dealers, and out-of-town utility companies will also attend.

American "Cinderellas"

Many Americans still remaining in London compared themselves to Cinderellas—compelled to be at home behind locked doors and darkened windows when Big Ben strikes midnight.

Well-informed circles were entirely convinced that the coming week will bring intensification of the war and possibly some joint strategy by the Rome-Berlin axis.

Some quarters predicted quick renewal of Germany's drive against the heart of France, with Italy throwing in her lot with the Reich.

But there also was a widely held opinion that Germany needs a breathing spell before launching a westward assault and that Premier Mussolini is not quite ready to strike.

This second opinion forecast axis diplomatic moves as a prelude to renewed military action.

Meanwhile, the allied general staff gave every sign of awareness of the situation, as displayed by further reinforcement of the allied Mediterranean fleet and diversion of considerable other forces to that area.

Meanwhile, evacuation for allied troops from the French channel port of Dunkerque continued, although this has now dwindled to a trickle as compared with the flood of men reaching England during the past few days.

(The London Daily Telegraph reported 300,000 members of the British expeditionary forces have arrived in England from Flanders.)

15 fresh divisions were reported pounding at Dunkerque, where rear guard defenders still held out to cover the evacuation.

German attacks on the port were increasing, evidenced by the sounds of battle that carried across the channel to the English east coast.

The French Citadel at Calais was reported still holding out, putting up a fight that undoubtedly will rank with the world's most dramatic sieges.

At Dunkerque a reduced rear guard held the line against masses of German infantry which were hurled through the flood waters surrounding the port's fortified zone. As the Germans waded through the water hip-deep, Allied machine guns made great gaps in their ranks. Dead and wounded Nazi troopers disappeared beneath the surface and survivors stumbled back out of range.

More than 100 Allied warships and more than 200 transports were engaged in the final work of evacuating the remaining troops.

MASSED GERMAN ATTACKS ARE MADE UPON DUNKERQUE

ber of troops already embarked and transported to England cannot yet be revealed, the spokesman stated, since the extent of these operations must be kept secret until they are completed.

Calm On Somme Front

Meanwhile, he said, absolute calm reigned on the Somme river front, where German elements apparently spent the day regrouping their forces. Along the Aisne River there was "extremely light activity of contact elements."

In the Rethel sector there was slight artillery fire, while between the Aisne and Chiers rivers there was greater but not striking artillery action, the spokesman said.

The greatest activity occurred east of the Moselle River, but this was confined to two German raids against French outposts with infantry and artillery fire. The spokesman said these attacks were "not dangerous and easily halted."

There were numerous German reconnaissance flights over eastern and southeastern France and over the Paris region, with heavy activity between pursuit planes between Rethel and Sedan.

Southern France Bombed

The Germans yesterday again bombed the southeastern region of France, but it appeared these flight groups were made up more of reconnaissance planes and bombers.

According to the French spokesman, these German aerial forays had the "obvious political goal" of impressing Italy.

French newspapers, meanwhile, speculated regarding Italy's possible moves, wondering whether Mussolini would deliver an ultimatum or whether Italy and Germany would launch a peace offensive.

All the papers pointed to Il Duce's pro-French stand in the World War. They stressed that France and England are ready to negotiate with Italy at any time and that it was Mussolini, not the Allies, who broke off negotiations.

Responsibility for any war between the Allies and Italy will be "Mussolini's alone," the papers said.

Allies Gain Time

Henri De Kerillis, a noted French commentator, said that the Allies have gained important time during the past few days.

"Our positions have been consolidated along the Aisne and Somme, behind which imposing masses of the enemy are concentrating," he said. "Every hour gained has a price.

"We are digging holes, placing anti-tank mines, opening locks on the marshes, running up concrete fortifications.

"Fresh troops finally have arrived and gone up to the lines or formed a reserve that is magnificiently enthusiastic.

"France has again found its soldiers of Verdun."

Following yesterday's German air raids on southern France, the war ministry claimed destruction of at least 12 German planes in Saturday's attacks against Marseilles and Rhone Valley centers.

War Secretary Anthony Eden said four-fifths of the B. E. F. had been rescued and returned to London.

"The bulk of the British expeditionary force has been saved," Eden said in a radio broadcast, "and quite apart from what the French have done for their own forces we have been able to bring tens of thousands of our French allies off with us from Dunkerque. . . .

"Man for man the British troops have proved themselves superior to the Germans whenever they have met them."

He added that the Germans had "failed in their main object, to surround and annihilate the allied armies of the north".

CONSTIPATED?
Don't Let Gas, Nerve Pressure Keep You Miserable

When constipated two things may happen. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up the bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure often causes headaches, a dull, lazy feeling, loss of appetite, and dizziness. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach, acid indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Then you can't eat. You can't sleep. Your stomach is sour. You feel tired out, grouchy, and miserable. BALANCED Adlerika containing three laxatives and five carminatives gives you DOUBLE ACTION. It relieves that awful GAS almost at once, and usually clears the bowels in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight relief. "Sold At All Drug Stores."

The double ring ceremony took place at the home of the bride in Wampum at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. J. Greer Bingham, pastor of the Wampum Presbyterian church, officiated at the candlelight service.

The bride, given away by her father, was attired in a white frosted organdy with pink and blue angora embroidered flowers adorning the collar. She wore a Juliet cap and shoulder length white veil, and her flowers were white roses. Mrs. Lawrence J. Goodman, matron of honor, wore pink net and carried a colonial bouquet. Mary Jane Marshall, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and she wore a blue net similar to that worn by the matron of honor, and her flowers were a colonial bouquet.

Wedding music was furnished by Eugene Repman, who also accompanied Mrs. Charles F. Morrow, soloist. She sang two lovely solos, "Because", and "I Love You Truly".

Wallace-Roush Wedding In Central Presbyterian Church

Inaugurating the season for June church weddings, a pretty ceremony of interest to many, took place in Central Presbyterian church Saturday afternoon June 1, at 2 o'clock, when Miss Virginia Eleanor Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wylie Wallace, of the New Bedford-Edenburg road, became the bride of William John Roush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Enos R. Roush, Penn avenue, New Brighton.

The vows were exchanged in the presence of a large assemblage of friends and relatives of the couple, filling the church almost to capacity. Dr. Robert Meade Patterson, was the officiating minister, who used the impressive single ring service. Palms and ferns provided a solid green background, which decorated the altar.

Preceding the approach of the bride, Miss Helen B. Ewing, organist, contributed a program of the bride's favorite selections. She later accompanied the soloist, Walter W. Wallace, who sang "The Rosary" and "Because." Miss Ewing resounded strains of nuptial numbers softly throughout the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her gown of white point d'esprit, fashioned with long sleeves, high neckline and a full toe length skirt. Her fingertip veil of net was caught by a head wreath of valley lilies. She carried a hankie which her grandmother, the late Mrs. Mary Elizabeth McJunkin carried at her wedding, and her arm bouquet of calla lilies was tied with the same bow of ribbon used on her own mother's arm bouquet at her marriage. Also, a diamond broach belonging to her mother, was her only jewelry.

Serving her sister as maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Wallace wore a pink mousseline de soie gown, floor length, with hand painted flowers on the panel skirt and the same decorations encrested the short puffed sleeves. Her leghorn hat was trimmed with pink velvet streamers and her arm cluster was of pink roses and blue delphinium.

Bridesmaids were Miss Edna Roush, sister of the bride-groom, and Miss Mary Martha Crock, the latter of Jerome, Pa., a roommate of the bride at Grove City College. They wore gowns of alice blue, made identical to that of the maid of honors, and carried pink roses tied with pink streamers.

Lawrence Smith of New Brighton, who served as best man, is an uncle of the bridegroom. Ushering were, Robert McJunkin Wallace of this city, Paul R. Slater, of Cortland, O., Jack Roush of New Brighton, brother of the bridegroom and Edward Earl Smith, this city.

A reception followed at the Wallace residence afterwards, for guests numbering upwards of a hundred. Yellow and white appointments were used effectively in the nuptial theme, and the tiered cake was prominently placed. The lunch was served buffet style, and pouring from the dining table, was Mrs. Emerson Totter of Pittsburgh, an aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Lawrence Smith of New Brighton, an aunt of the bridegroom. Aides included Miss Marian Carlisle of the New Castle-Lowellville road, Miss Charlotte Whiting of New Bedford, Miss Elizabeth McJunkin and Miss Mabel Ellen McJunkin both of Pittsburgh and Mrs. William McCombs, this city, the latter three, cousins of the bride. The house was transformed into a garden of beauty, with bouquets of flowers in every corner, adding much to the colorful setting. Dinner was a later feature served to twenty-five at 6:30 o'clock, for the wedding party and immediate families of the principals.

The couple left on a motor trip to New York, and other places, and the bride chose for traveling an ensemble of Navy, with accessories of the same. They will spend the summer months at Duke University at Durham, North Carolina, where Mr. Roush will study for his masters degree. In the fall, they will take up residence at Cortland, O., where he is head of the matematics department. Mrs. Roush has been a teacher at the same school, in the commercial department. She is a graduate of Grove City College and he was graduated from Geneva College. Both are popular members of the Cortland faculty.

Guests at the wedding from out of town, represented Ellwood City, New Brighton, Beaver Falls, Pittsburgh, Cortland, O., Edinboro, Jerome, Pa., Johnstown, Youngstown, O., and Uniontown.

KIDOODLERS MAKE MERRY WITH TOYS

Equipment and upkeep provides but a minor problem for the "Kidoodlers," popular NBC novelty quartet who lend zest to the already zestful Republic production "Village Barn Dance," now playing a merry and tuneful engagement at the Regent Theatre.

They began with a couple of guitars, a washboard and drumsticks. Since then they have added probably the weirdest collection of toy instruments ever played outside of a nursery — ocarinas, whistles, horns, bells, flutes, fiddles and sound effects gadgets called by the highly descriptive names "wah-wahs" and "Coo-Coos."

Their latest additions include a set of chimes bought in a toy shop for 39 cents, a baby's toy piano acquired in a rummage shop for fifteen cents and a set of bells taken from a dismantled church pipe organ. The second feature is Geo. O'Brien in "Racketeers of the Range."

MISS DOROTHY ROSE WEDS AT CLEVELAND

Lovely and quaint, was the all white colonial wedding which took place in St. Luke's Evangelical church in Cleveland, O., Saturday evening, when a former New Castleite, Miss Dorothy Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rose of 6409 Meadowbrook avenue, Cleveland, became the bride of Robert Meinke, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Meinke of 3148 West 84th street, also of Cleveland.

The services were performed in the glow of white cathedral candles before the altar, embanked with an abundance of white flowers, ferns and palms, a perfect setting for the old fashioned gowns worn by the bridal party. Rev. Zwilling, pastor, pronounced the service at 8 o'clock, and he was assisted by Rev. C. Powell.

Attired in a white taffeta hoop skirt gown, with full train veil, the bride was the picture of loveliness. She carried a colonial bouquet of valley lilies. Mrs. Jewell Milgate of Cleveland, was matron of honor, Miss Dorothy Williamson and Mrs. La Verne Swartzenberg as bridesmaids, were also of Cleveland. They wore gowns similar to that of the bride, in all white, with toe length skirts and arm bouquets. Appropriate wedding music was provided by the church organist and soloist.

Elroy Talbot of the Ohio city was the best man and ushering were Henry Lindner and Otis Rose, a brother of the bride, Clevelanders.

Little five-year-old Helen Rose as flower girl, was attired in a hoop-skirt of white taffeta. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Rose of Cleveland, and also former residents of New Castle.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Mienke left on a trip to Boston, and upon their return will reside at 3209 Archwood avenue, Cleveland, O., after June 12. Both are employed at the Williamson Wholesale House in Cleveland.

Attending from New Castle, were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wyman, Mrs. O. L. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Rose and son, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shiner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Newman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rose and son, Jack, Miss Jean Ramsey. Also, Mr. and Mrs. James Dent of Pittsburgh. This marks the marriage of the first granddaughter of Mrs. Rose who is well known in New Castle and vicinity.

At an appropriate hour the hostess, with the assistance of the special guest, Mrs. Mary Marrangoni, served a tasty lunch. Other guests included John Marrangoni and Lucille Marrangoni.

PAYING FOR DEFENSE

THE administration now broaches a subject much in the public mind since the $3,000,000,000—since upped to $4,000,000,000—national defense program was initiated. How is that program to be paid for? The administration's plan calls for an increase of $3,000,000,000 in the national debt limit, that is, from $45,000,000,000 to $48,000,000,000. Special "national defense" obligations in the sum of $3,000,000,000 will be sold. In short, further borrowing.

The plan does not stop there. It is the intention of the administration to seek additional taxation, amounting to between $600,000,000 and $700,000,000 annually for the next five years, the proceeds to be used to service and retire the "national defense" obligations. Enactment of the new taxes and of authorization to raise the debt limit will be sought at this session of congress, even if adjournment be postponed.

All of us want national defense and it is clear that some, if not all of us, are going to have to dig down to help finance it. All of us, no matter what our tax bracket, our line of business, trade, craft or profession, are going to have to contribute our part to American rearmament. There were no 4 o'clock or 5 o'clock whistles in Hitler's preparation for conquest, none of the long, casual week-ends that England maintained almost to the moment when the German armies reached the English Channel.

If American rearmament is to be made invulnerable to Hitlerism all of us are going to have to make sacrifices—sacrifices of our time, our inclinations, our resources, to produce and pay for this great program of defense.

HOLIDAY DRIVERS MORE CAREFUL

Holidays usually set the high-water marks for the year in highway casualties. Roads everywhere are filled with pleasure-seekers, many of them in a great hurry to get somewhere. Inexperienced, incompetent and reckless drivers jeopardize their own lives and the lives of others, and the results, in needless deaths, are written in the day-after fatality lists.

For some reason or other, Memorial Day period this year was an exception to the usual accident-filled holiday. Although Pennsylvania, unfortunately, had a total of traffic deaths on a par with most of its holiday records, the toll for the nation at large was exceptionally low.

For this saving in human lives, whatever the cause, we may be grateful, in the hope that it was occasioned by a desire on the part of holiday drivers generally to be more careful, and that the next big holiday, July 4, will see even a finer record of highway safety established, especially in our own state.

INDUSTRY'S PROBLEMS

At a time when the facing of facts is more than ever necessary to survival, an address made to representatives of the management of American industry by J. Douglas Brown of Princeton University is of unusual interest. These representatives were told that under present equipment and methods American industry is woefully inadequate for defense.

Graphically illustrating his points, Brown said it would take the United States a year with its present set-up to manufacture the shells exploded during ten days of the current fighting in France. For several months Brown has been traveling in this country and in Canada studying the ability of industry to increase production for defense needs.

Executive and supervisory thinking, Brown said, will have to undergo drastic changes if any productive speed is to be introduced into the most essential industries. Despite Secretary Perkins' contention that there is plenty of skilled labor, Brown found that some companies are going as far as 500 miles in search of technical workers. Airplane manufacturers are rounding up technical high school graduates. Labor "stealing" by one plant from another plant, already prevalent in Canada, is making its appearance here.

There are many problems to be ironed out in the industrial phase of preparedness no less than in the armament phase. And these will require months of effort before everything is rolling smoothly.

THOUSANDS OF PILOTS NEEDED

The reality of United States defense preparations will be brought closer home as the call comes for young men to volunteer for training as pilots in the air corps.

A matter-of-fact attitude may be taken toward appropriations of billions of dollars and construction of thousands of airplanes, but there is no disattached feeling associated with realization that planes and other war equipment are useless without men—and that choice of air pilots must be from the finest of America's young manhood.

Despite progress of aviation within the past few years, there is marked shortage of pilots qualified for military service and it is contended that 100,000 should be trained for military and commercial flying as quickly as possible.

To maintain an air force of 50,000 planes, as suggested by President Roosevelt, there would be an estimated requirement of 150,000 pilots and ground forces of 750,000.

Experience has been that only about one out of ten young men ambitious to become pilots can meet the severe physical and mental tests prescribed in training courses. Belief is also expressed that it will be more difficult to get qualified mechanics than pilots.

Most likely among prospects for either military or commercial pilots are young men who have some knowledge of motor operation and automotive mechanics, which has become more general since practically every boy has learned how to drive an automobile or truck.

As defense plans become more definite it seems not unlikely that each community will be called upon for a quota of volunteers for the air service—and, as in the past, there are probably a number of young men in this district and vicinity who will quickly respond to such a call.

SMILES AND GRINS

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TEACHERS SHOULD HELP STUDENTS

Once upon a time, I wrote in this column that we parents do best for our children while they are young to help them attain such self-reliance that when they must lose us they can carry on with a minimum of sorrow and distress.

How much does the average teacher know about the emotional background of her individual pupils? Nora Remley has been absent for four days, submitting on return a written excuse. "Death in the family." How often does the teacher know what member of the family died? How often does she care? Not that she means to be hard-hearted. She just assumes it is not her business. Does the teacher or the student organization make special attempts to help the bereaved student regain as easily as possible the learning losses which resulted from the absence? Or help him find more satisfactions to divert his thoughts from grief?

Source Of Care

In the classroom there are students (and pupils) with loved ones very ill, loved ones who have long been invalids, or have been a constant source of care and worry and anxiety to these students and the other members of their family; students also whose parents are unemployed, or are almost driven to distraction over money matters, losing their home, perhaps. There are students, too, whose parents do not understand them at all, or parents in continual discord, for whom love and happiness at home are hardly known.

What does the average teacher care about these matters, and why should she—except as any other person reasonably sympathetic should? Do her principal and supervisor, as a rule, the teachers under whom she had her training, and the textbooks which she studied, emphasize such human items?

Some, fortunately, have begun to do so; more, tomorrow will.

If I were teaching in the elementary or secondary school again, I should try to find many ways of cultivating human sympathy and tenderness in my students. I should also like to prove that I cared about anything which meant much to them. I should, each morning, try to be at school early, not there to write out lessons on the board, but to visit with the children, hoping they would talk to me about all sorts of things and that they informally would acquaint me with their homes, selecting me as the first person to tell of any sorrow, grief or worry, particularly in relation to their loved ones.

I just don't know how well I might measure up to my ideal. I'm human as are other teachers. But I should like to try, hoping to improve gradually, finding all the while a vast amount of satisfaction from the effort.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

HAVE COURAGE

The tread of a great army of graduating students leaving college, university and high school, is already being heard in the land.

These hundreds of thousands young people, ambitious, eager and confident, are America's greatest investment in a great future. For certain it is that the nation still has new frontiers to be opened. And where there are frontiers there is need for young pioneers able to face hardships and difficulties with courage and initiative. If this young generation, now quitting its period of apprenticeship for the plunge into the world itself, possesses these qualities—and we believe it does—the nation will soon see these new frontiers opening on a new era of greatness for America.

The continuing progress of this nation has its roots fastened deep in the truth that there is no end to human desires and wants, and no end to the effort, intelligence, and will to supply them. But there is still a major need to overcome the philosophy of defeatism. As Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette College, eloquently said the other day.

"Few battles have been won by discouraged armies. Morale is a vital element in success. The prophets of gloom have had more than their share of attention and have had a detrimental effect on youth. They have preached that the present social order is on the way out, that there is no future for America, that modern youth belongs to a lost generation. Fortunately, our pioneering ancestors, living in constant danger and withstanding unbelievable privation, did not have the benefit of such preachments. They believed in the possibilities of America." And they kept the faith!

Our young generation have faced and conquered, difficulties great as those now confronting America. They can, and will, do so again!

If you have loaned a friend a book and he or she has had it a long time, and you want it back, a good method to employ is to visit the friend's home, find your book and ask lightly if she (or he) is finished with it, and then offer to take it home with you to save the friend the trouble of returning it.

IT WAS RAINPROFF

One of our ministerial friends tells a story about a number of persons who dashed into a church to escape a shower.

The minister noted they were not regular attendants, and then heard the rain pattering on the roof. He, of course, made a lightning deduction, and then addressed the church.

Good Taste

"I am invited on an automobile trip by a neighbor and her husband," writes Agnes, "Should I insist on paying them my share of the expenses?"

Answer: If it is a short trip, over one night, and the invitation came spontaneously from your neighbors without any suggestion from you, they should pay all expenses. Of course, it would be a graceful gesture on your part to suggest stopping at some tea room or inn as your guest for luncheon or dinner but you are not under any obligation to make such a suggestion.

If you and your neighbors have been planning an extensive trip for over several days or a week—one which will entail considerable expense for your hotel bills and meals—you should state in the beginning that you will join them on condition that you pay your own hotel bills. Inasmuch as the addition of just one person to the party would not increase the cost of gasoline, oil and garage toll, it would not be necessary for you to insist on sharing these expenses. Perhaps the meanest man I ever knew was invited to drive a friend of mine and his wife for an overnight stay at my friend's house 150 miles away. At the end of the trip, he took out his pencil, added the items of gas, oil, luncheon and even tips, dividing them by two and asking for half, although he had been a guest for dinner and overnight.

Readers' Questions Answered

Question: I am fond of a boy in my class at school. He has taken me out several times, but recently he speaks to me one day and ignores me the next. Do you think he cares for me? What should I do? Fifteen.

Answer: If the young man in question cares for you, he surely has a peculiar way of showing his affection. Anyone who speaks to you one day and ignores you the next is not only unforgiveably rude and ignorant, but a little "touched" as well. Give him a dose of his own medicine and ignore him entirely. There are too many other eligible and polite boys in the world for you to worry your young head about this gauche creature.

Willkie Arouses Ire Of New Dealers
Says President's Supporters Not Loyal
Offers To Debate With Roosevelt On Topic

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Wendell L. Willkie, the Commonwealth and Southern power magnate and Republican presidential possibility, succeeded in getting third-term New Dealers thoroughly sore the other day by expressing a yearning to debate with Franklin D. Roosevelt the question:

Has Roosevelt done as good a job for the United States as Willkie has done for public utilities?

Of course, Willkie's plain implication was that he'd win the argument easily. That made the Roosevelt ians hot, for one thing. What made them still hotter was his claim to credit for a 100 per cent loyal utility organization, whereas the president's "bureaucracy, feeding upon political preference and privilege, has developed within itself the inevitable forces of discord and disharmony."

The New Dealers have to admit that there's a bit of disharmony betwen "pro" and "anti" New Deal Democrats, but they don't like to have it harped upon by Wendell Willkie, who was a Democrat himself until comparatively recently.

Poor Comparison?

And anyway, they say, such an outfit as the United States government can't imaginably be as free from differences of opinion among officials as an autocratically run concern like Willkie's power kingdom; if one of Wendell's subordinates (even a very big one) shows signs of disagreeing with his boss in the slightest particular, Wendell fires him instanter.

Those who remain are loyal, all right—they wouldn't remain otherwise—not unless they at least pretended to be mighty loyal. That's the New Dealers' story. But a president of the United States, they explain, can't be so high-handed; it wouldn't de democratic.

They add that they don't believe Wendell ever was much of a Democrat with a big "D" either, although he called himself one for years and years.

Their theory is that he professed Democratic principles because his power realm is largely in Dixie (Commonwealth and Southern) and probably he considered it good business to align himself with the popular kind of southern politics.

No Hereditary Aristocrat

It isn't made quite so clear why he flopped to Republicanism lately. Maybe he flopped because he sensed a change in southern political sentiment.

The fact is that Wendell always seemed to me (I've met him frequently in a newspaperman's capacity) to be quite a satisfactory little "d" democrat. Anyhow, he's informal, approachable and an excel-

GOLF TRUTH

Some truths of golfers I'd repeat
A sick man's very hard to beat.
I've struggled many a day in vain
Against a golfer suffering pain,
And just as hard to conquer here
Are those who've "played just twice this year!"

From sad experience I know
All handicaps are much too low.
But never have I trimmed the blokes
Who cry they must have extra strokes,
And men I view with no delight
Who "didn't sleep a wink last night!"

I'll play with golfers healthy but
I dodge the man with fingers cut.
I'd rather level play the pro
Than certain gentlemen I know
Who fear before we can get back
They'll have another heart attack.

This is the gospel truth I pen,
I sun arthritic gentlemen,
Nor do I care a match to make
With any walking stomach ache:
I've learned my lesson and repeat
Golf's invalids are hard to beat.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

by The Baltimore Sun (Copyright, 1940)

Partial Atonement

WASHINGTON, June 3

THE appointment by the President of Mr. J. Pierrepont Moffat as Minister to Canada is so good that it balances his previous appointment of Mr. James H. R. Cromwell to the same important post. It is hardly possible to praise it more highly than in saying that.

HOWEVER much Mr. Roosevelt may have merited criticism for his first selection he deserves equal praise for the second. It is completely non-political. It carries not even the suggestion of rewarding a large campaign contribution. It promotes a trained and experienced diplomat of high character and ability. It recognizes the right of the Dominion of Canada, particularly in so critical a period, to receive from us a really qualified representative.

IT also recognizes the importance to us in this country and at this time to have a balanced, dependable and competent man representing the United States at Ottawa. No one can foresee how overwhelmingly important it really may be, but in the event of a German victory over England and France, the possibilities of unforeseen and unprecedented situations are very great. Already speculation has appeared in print as to whether the British, in the event of defeat, would be able to save their fleet and send it and their government to Canada.

THERE have appeared also in print theoretical discussions as to what we would do if, acquiring the British fleet as a result of the capitulation of England and manning it with German sailors, the Nazis should cross the Atlantic and attempt to seize Canada. These notions may be—and it is to be hoped are—fantastic and without foundation. But some fantastic and frightful things have been happening in the world recently and no one will dispute that these have enormously increased the importance of the Canadian post.

THAT being the case, both Americans and Canadians have reason to be pleased that such a man as Mr. Moffat has been chosen to succeed such a man as Mr. Cromwell. That Cromwell appointment really was a sickening thing. It was offensive, of course, because it sent to our nearest neighbor and closest friend a man whose qualification seemed to be that he contributed heavily to the President's campaign fund. But, in addition to that, the appointment was clearly made with the view of furthering the political arrangement between Mr. Cromwell, who aspires to be United States Senator from New Jersey, and Mr. Frank Hague, the Democratic boss of that State. Mr. Cromwell, whose Fat Cat qualification leads Mr. Hague to refer to him as "the politician's dream," needed what the advertising gentlemen call a "build up." The Canadian post seemed just made to order for that purpose.

SO with the benediction of Mr. Hague, who previously had come out for a third term for Mr. Roosevelt, the President named Mr. Cromwell as Minister, with full knowledge of his political arrangement with Mr. Hague and of his intention to hold the position only until after he had been nominated for the Senate. The statement that the President had full knowledge of the political arrangement with Mr. Hague and cooperated in it is made advisedly. Because even if Mr. Cromwell had not personally apprised him of the facts, they had been printed and commented upon in practically every newspaper in the country. He could not have escaped the knowledge.

NOW, Mr. Cromwell has been nominated and New Jersey voters will decide in November whether or not they want him to succeed able Senator Warren Barbour. The odds are that a verdict against Mr. Cromwell will be rendered. That would be a blow to Mr. Cromwell and Mr. Hague, but not to the State or the nation. So far as the latter is concerned it would be better to have Mr. Cromwell represent his State in the Senate than his country in Canada. Neither defense nor explanation of Mr. Roosevelt's part in promoting Mr. Hague's sordid political plans through the appointment of Mr. Cromwell to Canada, and Mr. Edison (now the Hague candidate for Governor of New Jersey) as Secretary of the Navy, has ever been offered. The two constitute one of the least creditable chapters of the whole Administration. Fine as it is, the appointment of Mr. Moffat only partially atones.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

ONE YEAR OLDS

Any family doctor knows that many parents do a lot of unnecessary worrying about their babies. He has to spend a good deal of time reassuring anxious mothers who are upset because it appears that Johnny isn't walking as soon as he should, or Mary is backward in learning to talk, or George doesn't seem to understand things as well as a neighbor's child of the same age. I get numerous letters from parents, apparently deeply concerned, who want to know just what accomplishments are to be expected in normal children of one or two or three years old.

It is almost impossible to lay down any set rules because the development stages in children vary so. That is, different children, even in the same family, begin doing things at different ages. Of course, parents should watch their children for any signs of mental retardation or deficiency but they shouldn't jump to conclusions. A backward condition will manifest itself in ways that are almost unmistakable. If a baby seems slow in one or two things, there's no real reason to worry. It's when baby is backward about most things that the matter needs to be investigated.

At one year, a baby can usually pull itself up from sitting to a standing position, and can sometimes walk without help. Occasionally babies walk at the age of six months, and sometimes it is a year and a half before they begin. Most one-year-olds need to hold on to something to keep balance. One can waddle all over the house as long as it can hang on to something. If it walks unaided probably there is a waving of arms as it balances itself. Walking is still a pastime, and if it wants to get somewhere in a hurry, it drops to the floor and crawls.

At one year, an average child will play such simple games as pat-a-cake. It loves to climb over furniture or, better still, over people. It loves exploring and will handle any object it can find. It loves pictures in magazines and books, and will tear them as soon as it finds how easy it is; it recognizes quite a few people—all those who are around it every day. It can drink from a cup fairly successfully; if its training has been started properly it has regular bowel movements and can indicate by some sound when it needs toilet attention. Already it has favorites amongst its toys.

Of course the two most important developments in this second year of life (counting, as I do, the 9-month foetal period) are walking and talking. Most children have made a beginning at both at the first birthday. Often one can say a word or two, and can imitate simple sounds. By fifteen months the vocabulary has a few more words and a lot of expressive sounds that stand for various feelings—glee, disgust, excitement and so on. At a year and three quarters, the child can join two words in its speech and can repeat fairly well the sound of things said to it.

At a year, the child has learned to co-ordinate its senses—it connects the sounds it hears with the movements responsible for them. By the approach of the second birthday, baby is entirely taken up with things around it. It is busy trying to imitate adults—feeding itself, trying to dress itself, trying to sweep the floor and do other jobs it watches adults do.

(Tomorrow we will follow it past the second birthday.)

Chicora Youth Sent To Asylum As Torch Slayer

BUTLER, Pa., June 3.—A young man who, physicians said in a court report, "put his mother out of the way" to save her from suffering at the hands of a foreign aggressor he believed about to invade this nation, on Saturday was committed to Farview State Hospital for the criminal insane.

Judge John H. Wilson signed the order committing George Moore, 24, of nearby Chicora, to the institution after receiving the report of two psychiatrists.

The young man's mother, Mrs. Emma Moore, 64, died last April 5 of burns a day after an inflammable liquid had been tossed on her clothing, which then were set afire.

At the same time Moore's brother, William, 40, and his mother's nurse, Miss Ethel O'Brien, 25, were set upon with an ax. Both recovered. George Moore had been held in the county jail since then on a district attorney's detainer, pending the physicians' examination.

Their report said Moore suffered from delusions, that he believed he was being persecuted, and that attempts were being made to poison him. It added that when he became convinced this nation was about to be invaded, he attacked those in his home "in an attempt to protect those dearest to him."

Moore's brother and Sheriff Paul J. Tebay signed the request for the young man's committment to Farview.

lent mixer. There's nothing aristocratic about him.

I've met some of his underlings, also. They don't refer to him as a hard-boiled boss. Contrariwise they describe him as a good fellow, but perhaps this is because he scares 'em into it.

The popular impression is that a power magnate is a plutocrat, not only in his own right, but born with a golden spoon in his trap—a guy who doubless has made a lot of his money, but who had his original stake handed down to him by his ancestors.

Self-Made Man

Willkie doesn't belong one particle in that category.

He's a native Hoosier, and his family absolutely was all right, but not at all affluent. Wendell worked his own way through Indiana university and on into the legal profession. He got into public utilities through their law departments. Today he's a New Yorker, like Tom Dewey—also a western product (Michigan).

Wendell, in his youth, traveled around the country considerably. He's been a farm laborer. Some of his traveling was done in box cars.

So if Wendell's a magnate, he's earned his magnate-ism.

Likewise, by his capable, though informal oratory, he's converted himself from a very dark Republican horse, into something of a sure-enough candidate.

THREE LISBON MEN ARE KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

LISBON, O., June 3.—Coroner Arnold W. Devon ruled "accident" today after three Lisbon men were killed in a two-ton truck which Saturday night plunged through a guard rail, struck a tree and went over a declivity when the driver lost control on a steep hill here.

The dead are Robert Morris, 29, driver; Raymond Trunick, 27, and Harry Cox, 21.

Traveling at a speed which police estimated at 60 miles an hour, Morris lost control of the truck as the three men were returning from nearby West Point, where, it is said, they were negotiating a coal deal.

The runaway truck knocked down 67 feet of heavy metal guard fence before crashing against the tree. The driver and his companions were hurtled 45 feet, when the truck was demolished. All were seated in the truck cab. They died of fractured skulls and internal injuries.

Morris leaves a widow and two children and Trunick is survived by his widow. Cox was unmarried.

Beaver Court Says Bank Nights Illegal

BEAVER, Pa., June 3.—Bank nights are taboo in Beaver County. President Judge Frank E. Reader, in a 24-page opinion in Commonwealth versus J. S. Lund of Aliquippa, held that bank nights conducted by Lund in his two theaters are lotteries and therefore illegal.

Lund was indicted by a grand jury for conducting a lottery at evidence presented by District Attorney Robert E. McCreary. By agreement the case was heard March 20, before Judge Reader without a jury.

Lund co-operated to make this a test case. Bank nights were prevalent in Beaver County theaters for years until several months ago when the district attorney warned they were illegal.

Expense accounts of most of the candidates who ran in the primary elections of April 23 have been filed in the office of the election board and from the totals reported the boys got away with bargain rates this year, A few filed statements that they had spent less than $50 and no candidates spent more than $300, with one exception.

For congress Louis E. Graham, Republican candidate filed an account of $549.17, but this covers Lawrence, Beaver and Butler counties. Elmer D. O'Neil, Democratic contestant filed $213.43 No other filings for congress are seen.

For State Senate W. Sharp Fullerton, Republican candidate filed $155.50. On the Demoacratic ticket J. K. McQuiddy filed $190.50, Adam Fszenny, Jr., $84.25 and Carmi G. Preston, said he spent less than $50.

For General Assembly, first district, Republican, O. J. Shannon filed $294.28, J. Elder Bryan, $179.09; Robert M. Strickler, Jr., $142.70; Alvan H. Fisher $111.73. Democratic candidates. Presley N. Jones $274.30, Harold A. Good $87.64.

Second district, General Assembly, Republican, George T Weingartner, $92.50, Democratic Clyde M. Buzard $155.51, Bernard W. N. Chili, less than $50.

For delegate to the national convention Mell George, Demoacrtic candidate is the only one filed his total being less than $50.

One candidate, whose name need not appear here waxed a bit facetious on his return. One item of $36 he explains as expenses between April 1 and 24 for "cigars, cigarettes, lunches, dinners, sundaes, phone calls, telegrams, postage, soft drinks aspirin, bromo seltzer, etc."

Just why the aspirin an dbromo seltzer was needed is a bit puzzling. He didn't need it for himself for he won. It might have been for the voters who got some of the "soft drinks."

Charles D. Ross, registrar of graves on Saturday expressed his appreciation to the veterans to various organizations and civilians who aided in placing flags upon the graves of departed ex-service men.

Judge Thomas W. Dickey has handed down his decision in the case of the School District of the City of New Castle against Giovanni Di Giacomo, a case in which a rule was issued to show cause why a lien for taxes should not be stricken off

The case is one in which DiGiacomo asked for and received an H. O. L. C. loan in 1935 on a property in the fifth ward. At the time the loan was granted it is averred that he asked the county treasurer for a complete list of taxes against the property.

The county treasurer prepared the list but the school taxes for 1931 were omitted from the list. In the meantime the H. O. L. C. took over the property, and the school board had placed a lien against the property for the delinquent taxes of 1931.

For the substitute defendant, the H. O. L. C it was argued that the failure of the treasurer to incure the 1931 taxes on the list asked for was grounds for the cancelling of the lien. To this Judge Dickey replied that the treasurer was not required to furnish such lists, that the lien was of record when the taxes were asked for and that the defendant should have looked at the lien list which is public property

The order is that the rule is stricken off and the taxes must be paid before the lien is stricken off The taxes and penalties amount to $96.55.

With one exception, the prisoners who were mixed up in the attempted jail break two weeks ago have been taken to the penitentiary by Sheriff M. M. Ingham. One of them Anthony Phillips has not yet been sentenced.

Following sentence court Saturday morning desertion and non-support cases were heard by Judges Braham and Dickey, each in his own court room. The Saturday morning sessions of desertion and non-support cases are among the most sordid of all court sessions. Wives appear and relate tales of desertion of them and children, husbands attempt to justify their actions and the answer is usually the same, the court orders the husband to make a monthly payment for the support of his wife and family.

Occasionally some young man gets the wacky idea that he can beat the order by not paying. Little time is taken up with these cases. The judge merely orders them into the county jail to think it over.

Along the desertion and non-support cases on Saturday Judge Dickey heard the petition of Carl Majors of Ellwood City for a parole.

Mercantile taxes are due, fact is they are overdue. They were payable May 1, according to County Treasurer Earl R. Wimer.

Human carelessness accounted for the other half.

In the national forests alone there were 15,725 forest fires.

Campers, tourists and hikers caused 8,462 of these fires.

National forests are protected by fire wardens and others.

Private and unprotected forests suffer most of the loss.

There is no control over lightning.

Man can and should overcome his own carelessness.

Congressmen Would Limit President's Mobilizing Power

Opposition To Guard Request

Senators Would Limit Use Of Guard To Continental United States

TO PUSH PROGRAM FOR U. S. DEFENSE

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 3. — Drastic limitation of any power extended President Roosevelt to mobilize the national guard was demanded today by legislators who are normally staunch supporters of the New Deal.

Emphasizing sharp opposition to the executive's request for such authority, Sen. Bankhead (D.), Ala., usually a firm backer of administration measures, proposed that any legislation extending the requested power prohibit dispatch of the guard beyond continental U. S. territory.

"I'm willing for the president to have power to call out the guard for training purposes, field service and preparation," said Bankhead, "But I'm not willing to give him authority to use the guard troops for purposes of invading or occupying foreign soil."

To Perfect Defense

Bankhead's suggestion capped a skyrocketing controversy over the president's request as Congress moved on numerous fronts to perfect Mr. Roosevelt's $5,000,000,000 defense improvement program.

House committees awaited submission of measures for the president's billion dollar extension of the program proposed in a special message last week. In the Senate pending business was the $655,000,000 bill for expanding the navy by 11 per cent. The $1,500,000,000 navy supply bill comes up in the House for final action tomorrow. Meantime Senate committees worked on the labor bill designed to hasten ship construction.

Would Aid Allies

Simultaneously, demands increased for legislation to permit the president to sell the allies certain military implements of the army and navy, such as observation airplanes, guns, etc., with Sen. Pepper (D.), Fla., leading these moves. House military committee chairman May (D.), Ky., declared action along this line was imperative. Pepper said that he would force a Senate foreign relations committee showdown on the proposal Wednesday.

Measures implementing the defense increase program with R. F. C. power to set up corporations and loan money for military expansion purposes were pending in both houses. Legislation looking to improvement of the nation's airfields was in the offing.

Leaders in both houses said that they "would not be surprised" at additional executive requests for appropriations this week. They added that demands for a sharp increase in the army could be expected under the new billion dollar extension program.

Leaders refused to predict when Congress would adjourn in the face of the expanding military legislation moves, but there was a growing sentiment in the Senate for remaining in session throughout the summer.

Dedicate New Church Sunday

Large Crowd At United Brethren Church On Crawford Avenue

BISHOP MUSGRAVE DIRECTS SERVICES

On Sunday afternoon, the United Brethren of Christ church building on North Crawford avenue, was dedicated to the worship of God, and the advancement of the Kingdom of Christ.

Dr. Walter E. Musgrave, of Huntington, Indiana, senior Bishop of the church organization, preached the dedicatory sermon. He delivered a soul stirring message on the subject, "The King in His Beauty" Matthew 17 chap. 3 verse, Isaiah 33 chap. 17 verse. He spoke eloquently on The Transfiguration, of the inner circle of the apostles of Christ, of the courage necessary and the price to be paid to get into that circle by all Christ's followers.

Dr. Musgrave said the mission of this new church was not to take members from other churches, but to bring in the unchurched people of the city, of which there are many, also to help make this a better city.

Special music was furnished by the Vogan Trio, of Geneva, Ohio, and an instrumental trio, under the direction of Tom Booher. Mrs. Robert Lockhart was accompanist.

Rev. J. C. Price, the pastor, thanked all those who had given their labor gratis for the painting and improvements, and making ready the building for this occasion, and also thanked florists for flowers and decorations, and undertakers for chairs supplied to the church.

The church building was crowded to overflowing.

Liberal donations were made by the congregation, under the direction of Bishop Musgrave.

The morning and evening services were given over to the Sandusky Conference of the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor societies who met with the local church during this special occasion. Dr. Musgrave also delivered powerful messages at these services.

SENIORS HEAR BACCALAUREATE

Central Christian church, East Long avenue, for the invocation. The choir sang the choral "Amen."

Then the audience joined in singing "America"—and it rang through the huge hall—and then Rev. Shearer proceeded with the scripture reading.

Next came another number by the choral group "God is a Spirit." Rev. Shearer then offered prayer.

Congregation Sings

The vast congregation sang "America, the Beautiful" as its second number just before Dr. Ferguson began to preach.

The sermon was one of the finest ever heard by a baccalaureate audience.

Following it the a Capella choir again sang this time, "Father Most Holy."

Then came the spoken benediction by Rev. Shearer and the choir's solemnly sung choral benediction.

At that moment the class began filing out of the auditorium to the recessional "Grand Choeur," played by Mrs. Reed.

Ushers at the service were students of Senior high school.

For her organ numbers before the service, Mrs. Reed played the following: "Air for the G String"—Bach; "Echoes of Spring,"—Frimi; "Serenade"—Moszlowski; "In a Monastery Garden"—Ketelbey.

Baccalaureate Address

"God Approved Lives"

Dr. Ferguson preached on the theme, "God Approved Lives." His sermon text, "Give diligence to present thyself approved unto God," was drawn from the 15th verse of the second chapter of Second Timothy.

"The word guaranteed," he declared, "is an over-worked word today. All sorts of things are guaranteed by all sorts of persons. The finest guarantee ever penned means nothing unless the guarantor is reliable."

Dr. Ferguson continued:

"Paul reminds us in the text that people instinctively seek a guarantee upon their way of living—upon the character house they build. But many are no more careful to make sure of the reliability of the guarantor of their lives than of the guarantors of things they buy.

"Many seem to be satisfied if the character house they build is approved by Self. They do as they please—no thought but for Self. How unlovely such lives are! What right has Self to approve or disapprove? Does Self's guarantee mean anything—can he make good on it? Bitter disappointment is in store for those trusting in such endorsement of their lives.

Then, in part, Dr. Ferguson went on:

"Many others satisfied in character house approved by Other People. 'What will others think' is the final tribunal for them! Must 'keep up with the Jones' in all things! How some dread the finger of scorn or ridicule! There is sense in which are to care what others think of us. Must try to make others like us for Christ's sake, but not in any servile sense.

"No course of conduct is justified just because many following in that way. True manhood stands on its own feet. This kind of life—a travesty upon true manhood—is spineless, never able to stand alone. What right do others have to endorse our lives? Can they make good upon their guarantee in the end.

"Dare any of us be satisfied with any endorsement of our life, other than God's? Paul was exactly right in urging men to seek God's approval. Will any other than He be able to make good on the guarantee?

"God has not left us in ignorance as to the manner of life of which He approves. It is clearly set forth by precept and by example in His Word. It calls for:

A life of faith.

A life lived in uncompromising opposition to all evil.

A life dynamically supporting all that is good.

A life continually being poured out in service for others.

"The God approved life set before us perfectly in Jesus Christ. God guarantees him without reservation. He is our perfect example in all things. So Paul urges us all to do our best to win Divine approval and to think less of the approval of Self, and Others, and more of the recommendation of God—which, after all, is the only thing that matters.

"Young man, young woman, is your life winning God's approval?"

MANY CITIES HAVE RADIO-EQUIPPED CARS FOR POLICE

(International News Service)

CHICAGO—Twelve years ago the Detroit police department pioneered in the development of radio cruising cars.

Today 900 American municipalities have followed the lead to provide radio car protection for their citizens, the International Association of Chiefs of Police reported.

The association gave high credit to Detroit, which not only pioneered the way for radio cars, but also established the widely adopted practice of equipping police cars with short wave radio receiving sets which cannot be tuned off the police station wave length.

California with 90 municipal police radio stations has more than any other state. Other leaders are New Jersey with 71, New York with 64, Massachusetts with 56, Pennsylvania with 43 and Michigan with 37.

Costs have been cut in many communities by consolidation. The Chicago police radio station is linked with more than 50 other police jurisdictions, covering three counties.

"Our happiness depends on -My job -good health"

"A run-down condition imperils my pay envelope . . . some stronger guy may take my place.

"I depend on S.S.S. to solve my problem . . . it is a grand Tonic—Appetizer and Stomachic . . . for improving digestion . . . to build blood health and maintain weight. The reward is more strength from the food we eat . . . even tempers . . . better health and a natural skin glow from within. We feel S.S.S. Tonic is due great credit for much of our happiness and keeping us just normal beings."

You can promote greater happiness by overcoming a run-down condition due to weak blood and poor stomach digestion by taking a course of S.S.S. Tonic. You owe it to yourself to enjoy its benefits. You should note a decided improvement in a short time. In fairness and accuracy, if you suspect an organic trouble, consult your physician. Soon you will enthusiastically say to your friends—"S.S.S. made me feel and look like myself again."

Reds And Bees Split Two Games

Bucky Walters Wins His Ninth Straight Game With Help Of Johnny Rizzo

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 3. — William Henry (Bucky) Walters, Jr., the reformed third baseman, today was one more brilliant pitching victory nearer to the performances of the super-stars of the past. Some of the game's greatest moundsmen have been thwarted in their attempts to duplicate the outstanding consecutive game streaks and he may be stopped at any time now to fall well short of the record, but so far he has scored nine straight for the Cincinnati Reds and has showed no sign of faltering. He could wind up with as many as 30 wins for the year. What's more, he could blitzkrieg the Reds to another pennant, despite a preponderance of opinion favoring the St. Louis Cardinals.

Last season this former Philadelphia Philly infielder led both leagues with 27 victories against 11 defeats, coupled with a 2.29 earned run average, and won't do much worse this time, barring accidents. Right-handed and husky, he is 30 years old now and soon must go over the peak, but before he does in the next couple of years he may firmly clinch for himself a place among the best of them.

Reds-Bees Split

His ninth straight yesterday without a defeat for the year, was close to a masterpiece inasmuch as he beat the Boston Bees 11 to 1, allowing only five hits, and the Bee run being the result of a fumble by Left Fielder Johnny Rizzo. The later made up for the lapse to some extent by hitting a pair of home runs for Walters to help sew up this opener, after which the Reds promptly dropped the nightcap 2 to 0 to the Bees, whose pitching was handled by Dick Errickson.

In the meantime, the Brooklyn Dodgers were gaining some ground on the pace-setting Reds by twice upsetting the Chicago Cubs, 3 to 2 and 2 to 1, leaving the Dodgers two games out of first place.

The St. Louis Cardinals lost to the Philadelphia Phillies, 4 to 2, then won by 9 to 2, when Johnny Mize came through with his 13th and 14th home runs.

The New York Giants lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2 to 1, and took the nightcap, 7 to 3.

Yanks Win Two

In the American League, the New York Yankees tripped the St. Louis Browns twice, by 13 to 4 and 11 to 1, and made up some of their deficit by gaining on all the other first division clubs. They still are in fourth place, but only 5½ games out of the lead.

The pace-setting Red Sox were shut out in the opener by Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 0, but took the second game, 10 to 8 when Jimmy Foxx hit his 13th homer in the ninth with one on.

Schoolboy Fisherman Enter Unique Contest

Wednesday, June 5, will find all the youthful fishermen of the Ben Franklin Junior high school engaged in a "blitzkrieg" against the shiners, chubs, suckers, or anything else that has fins which swims in the waters of the Neshannock Creek between the East Washington street and South Jefferson street bridges.

The reason will be the first annual fishing contest for boys of the Ben Franklin school, which is being promoted by Coach Emmett W. Gillaspie. The contest will take place between 2 and 3:30 o'clock, and the boy catching the most number of fish will get first pick on some handsome prizes which have been donated for the contest. The boy catching the largest fish will get second choice, and the boy catching the second largest number, will have third choice, and the one getting the second largest, fourth choice. The prizes have been donated by local merchants.

Assisting Gillespie in conducting the contest will be William Wallace, Paul Cuba, and James Bowman, of the Ben Franklin faculty. The chief judge will be Fish Warden C. B. "Rosy" White.

Rules drawn up for the contest provide that any boy over 16 years of age who is entered must have a fishing license. No fish out of season will be considered for a prize. Not more than one line can be used and not more than three hooks will be permitted on a line. Only fish over six inches in length will be considered in the contest. Fish under six inches in length will be considered only as bait and not eligible for the count. Fishing must be done from the banks. There will be no wading or disturbing of other fishermen.

No one will be permitted along the banks of the stream until 1:45 o'clock. Fishermen will be ready to cast at 1:58, and two blasts of a police whistle will open the contest. Another blast will signal the close of the contest at 3:30 o'clock, and the fishermen will have a minute to reel in his line.

All fish will be measured by Mr. White, using a standard rule. No fishmerman's rule will be permitted. No location on the bank shall be considered as private for any boy. The winners shall be known in the future under the title of "Fisher" and will have the right to tell fish stories any time or place without having to furnish proof of their prowess.

Unsportsmenlike conduct will disbar any boy from the contest. Mr. White will have the right to have any boy reel in his line for the purpose of examining it to ascertain the number of hooks, bait, etc., at anytime.

Ellwood City Bouts One Week From Tonight

Following a lapse of several weeks, pugnacious inclined will fire punches at each other one week from tonight in an eight-bout show to be staged by the Ellwood A. C. in the Shelby auditorium, Ellwood City. There'll be a twin wind-up in which Smokey Robinson will meet Mike Condella and Benny Bartle will exchange wallops with Willie Davies. The former are lightweights and the latter lightheavyweights. Robinson is the national A.A.U. lightweight champion.

Robinson has been unchecked for several years in this district. In experience Condella rates fairly even with the lightweight champion and having held the featherweight championship of Golden Glovers in Youngstown, he feels capable of holding the Oil City colored boy even. It ought to be a good bout. It is carded for three rounds.

Moran On Card

Benny Bartle, former Ellwood City high school athlete is girded for action. He will meet an elusive veteran in Willie Davies. Bartle's chief claim to local amateur fistic claim is a three round victory over Mickie Rubin when Sir Miquel was going "big guns" in the light-heavyweight division. Since that night Mickie turned professional.

The rest of the card appears a punch-for-punch affair. The bouts follow:

Frankie Moran vs Nickie Retardo; 135 pounds.

Billy Reale vs Johnny Como; 155 pounds.

Babe Retardo vs Arvie Bowie; 128 pounds.

Tony Como vs Harold Hazlett; 147 pounds.

Roy Cruse vs Chuck Arkett; 147 pounds.

Nate Hardge vs Vic Hall; weight not stated.

Pete Boy and Johnny Loccisano are in charge of the fistic promotion.

Sports World Ramblings

Spinning 'round the cinder path—Before pulling down the curtain on scholastic athletics here, George Washington junior high school's track squad merits the spotlight for its achievements during the past campaign. The north hill thinclads rank among the most talented gravel pounding machines uncovered in many seasons. . . .

In copping their second consecutive junior high track coronet, George Washington exhibited its prowess by smashing every record in the unlimited class (over 120 pounds). The Washington athletes knocked off eight marks, an unprecedented feat. Many moons will pass by before another junior high team will duplicate the accomplishment. . . .

Robert Lee bowled over the century record. Bill Paradise bettered the 220-yard scamper and the half mile grind. Combining their efforts, Paraide, Joyce, Mitchell and Doster scattered the half mile relay mark. Clayton Pitzer flattened the broad jump mark while Maurice Donegan took care of the old high jump record. Dave Genkinger spilled the pole vault mark and Robert Lee busted the shot pot record. . . .

Lee grabbed the individual high scoring honors on the team followed by Paraide and Mitchel. Needless to say, Coach Art Alexander, the ex-Hurricane backfield shark, was more than pleased with the showing made by his protege, as was Joe Lockley, who served as assistant coach. In passing, it might be added that Will Klee and P. H. Bridenbaugh, high school major domos, were elated. In the near future, this crop will likely be flaunting the Hurricane colors. . . .

Diamond Dust—One reason for Pittsburgh's downfall: the team has committeed more errors than any other club in the National. . . . Bob Klinger is noted for his ability to tame the Giants. Up to Saturday, his life time mark against the Terrymen was 9 victories against 4 setbacks. Last year, the Pirate twirler succeeded in blanking the Giants right in their home lot. . . .

Carl Hubbell will not likely join his mate, "Lefty" Grove. After starting off weakly, stories were already hitting the pages to the effect that Meal Ticket has felt the tap of Father Time. Suddenly, Hubbell commenced to show his wizardry. His most convincing performance came Memorial Day when he gave up a lone single as the Giants annihilated Brooklyn in the opener. Hubbell added a bit of emphasis to the show by facing only 27 men.

Rumors pouring out of Philadelphia state that had Smoll shown up well in his last start, the Phils were ready to dispose of either Higbe or Mulcahy. . . . With the Brooklyn Dodgers hitting the skids for the first time this season, Flatbush has retained some of its normalcy. Pennant talk has dropped down to a "tsh." . . .

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

"What is so rare as a day in June?" . . . You answer that one . . . according to the advance weather report, the rain is not over. Wish they could do something about saving some of it for those hot, dry days we are bound to have the last of July and all during August. Remember last summer how things dried up and the farmers had to haul water for their livestock . . . let's all hope that nothing like that happens this summer.

Those who were disappointed in Memorial Day . . . those who wanted to go on a picnic . . . took advantage of the fine sunshine yesterday and made their way to newly-painted benches that are found at the roadside stands throughout the state. Up in Michigan the state provides roadside tables for the public . . . that is something for our state to think about.

As we travel over the streets of New Castle, we find the street signs in very bad condition . . . the cement posts that hold the tin street signs are still standing, but the signs themselves are bent or gone altogether . . . it has been suggested that the name of the street be painted on the cement posts . . . and really that sounds all right . . . there is plenty of room and the posts are well rooted and should stand for some time. We wish the department in charge of same would give this idea some real thought, as we do need street names badly.

Here is a dog that can be had if the right person calls: Mrs. Wagner, Rhodes Place. Phone 5629 . . . A medium size black dog . . . would make a fine pet for someone who really wants a dog.

The street department has been very efficient this summer so far . . . streets that have needed scraping have been taken care of or are in the process of being taken care of . . . we hope that each citizen of the community will co-operate with this department in all that they ask . . . in that way everything should go along smoothly.

* * *

And then it comes time to read the Classified Ads. . . . many are helped through these small ads. . . . try reading them and see what you can find to help you solve your problems.

Market Undertone Is Steady Today

Extremely Dull Trading Develops Despite Steadiness Of Market

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, June 3.—Extremely dull trading ruled in the stock market today with the general undertone steady. Leaders were up fractions at the start, a few gaining a point, but a large part of the modest advance was lost in light profit-taking before midday.

Steels were early leaders, but slipped back in the second hour. National Steel was up a point at one time. Bethlehem converted a gain of ⅞ into a fractional loss and Republic also eased moderately after opening higher. U. S. Steel held a minor advance.

There were a number of minus signs sprinkled through the list at the end of the second hour. Included were Chrysler, Cerro De Pasco, Phelps-Dodge, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Eastman Kodak, Goodyear, N. Y. Central and Consolidated Edison.

Minor gains were held by American Smelting, which was up more than a point at one time, International Harvester, Du Pont, International Nickel, Pennsylvania, Great Northern preferred, Woolworth, Standard Oil of N. J., North American Co. Libbey-Owens-Ford, American Telephone and Lockheed.

Montgomery Ward and Owens-Illinois each climbed better than a point.

Conn-Lesnevich Battle Wednesday

Pittsburgh Champion Only 6 To 5 Favorite Over Stocky Gus Lesnevich

(International News Service)

DETROIT, June 3.—Billy Conn today was no better than a 6 to 5 choice to retain his light heavyweight boxing championship against Gus Lesnevich in a 15-round bout in Olympia stadium Wednesday night.

In a nine-round drill Sunday afternoon, Lesnevich battered three sparring partners and turned in an all-around performance that caused fight followers to rally to his support.

Lesnevich completed heavy training Sunday night and will not don the gloves again until he steps into the ring Wednesday.

Conn, on the other hand, reduced his weight to the 175-pound limit over the week-end and turned in a clever nine-round exhibition before more than 300 spectators. He concludes his training today.

The champion has been confident right along that he will stop the challenger via the k. o. route but those who have been following the men in training were inclined to doubt this confidence.

WESTERN AREAS OF PARIS SUFFER MOST IN ATTACK

ministry of information, which did not disclose the American's identity.)

The first check-up indicated that western areas of Paris suffered worst in the attack.

Two bombs fell in the same street of one quarter, destroying two buildings only 100 yards apart. Several persons were believed killed and wounded.

The Germans apparently used light bombs of from 20 to 50 pounds each, but these were sufficient to wreck at least the upper stories of buildings wherever they hit.

In this particular area windows were broken over a radius of 500 yards. Half a dozen buildings in the western outskirts could be seen in flames.

Alarm At 1:20 P. M.

The air raid alarm sounded at 1:20 p. m. (8:20 a. m. E. D. T.), and within five minutes the skies were filled with the roar of planes.

Although the skies were cloudless, a haze hid the attackers from view.

With anti-aircraft guns sounding in all directions from the ring of emplacements surrounding the capital, a heavy thud of bombs starting about 1:30 p. m. continued without interruption until 1:50 p. m.

At that time, the attack tapered off to occasional explosions, but already half a dozen columns of smoke could be seen billowing towards the sky on the outskirts of the city.

This correspondent was at the United States embassy with first secretary Maynard Barnes when the long-expected attack came.

We rushed to the roof of building to watch the attack as French fighterplanes went aloft, losing themselves in the haze along with the attackers.

Planes Are Clouded

The raiders as well as defense planes remained clouded from view throughout the attack, but the air was filled with the indescribable din of roaring motors, punctuated by the explosions of anti-aircraft guns.

Paris greeted the first real attack with stunned amazement.

The first blast of the warning sirens sent thousands of Parisians to cover while the streets were filled with racing ambulances and first-aid trucks, all rushing for their appointed places.

There was no immediate estimate of the damage done or threatened, or no indication that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's visition of "Guerre Totale" upon the capital of France had exacted casualties.

As clouds of smoke began to rise one after another on the outskirts, it became easily apparent that German incendiary bombs were taking their toll.

Paris has had numerous air raid alarms in recent months and on May 21 a few bombs were dropped in the Seine-Et-Oise district near Versailles. But it was not until today—nine months after Britain and France declared a state of war existed as a result of Hitler's invasion of Poland—that Paris itself shook from the thud of falling bombs.

Immense Explosive Power

The immense explosive power of the German weapons was attested by the fact that buildings shook and window-panes rattled unceasingly as the bombs fell outside the city. The immediate assumption was that the Nazi planes were attacking military objectives such as railway junctions, factories and munitions stores, but in the intense confusion it was impossible to obtain details.

Due to the haze in the sky, Parisians had to rely upon their sense of hearing rather than sight to appreciate the extent of the raid. Those who were present during this long-fared assault agreed that the skies were literally "filled" with squadrons of attackers, if the noise they made were any criterion.

The alarm ended at 2:30 p. m., one hour and ten minutes after it sounded.

Until the "all clear" came, all dispatches and telephone calls were held up.

We are now sending reporters out to the bombed area to find out the extent of the damage. As I left the embassy roof I could see the red glare of flames shooting up from what appeared to be a group of apartment houses.

For the present, we are forbidden to give any indication of the locality of the hits.

Throughout the raid, the stunned populace of Paris remained calm. The general reaction was one of grim fury.

Six Killed In One Building

Paris, June 3.—Six persons were known to have been killed and a score wounded when a large building was struck directly by explosive and incendiary bombs during a German air raid on Paris today, according to word from an International News Service correspondent at the scene.

At least 100 persons were cut by flying glass. Quick evacuation to air raid shelters saved many lives in this area.

"Two buildings are in flames here," the correspondent reported.

AROUND CITY HALL

During council meeting in city hall Monday the council at the recommendation of the city assessor changed the classification of occupation of several taxpayers. Some of them, former mechanics, now are either unemployed or working as laborers, it is stated.

Council adopted the recommendation of Solicitor R. M. White today and ordered $2 paid to Miss Lillian Hill, witness for the city in the suit brought for a drowning in the Cascade park pool last summer.

Salvation Army through Captain Carl Andreasen asked council to exempt taxation on the Crawford estate, North Jefferson street, which will be used by the Salvation Army for religious and charity purposes and also for a youth movement. The captain stated one floor will be living quarters for the officer in charge of the local Salvation Army. The request was referred to the city assessor for a report and recommendation.

Council at the instance of Councilman W. H. Dunlap rejected bids recently opened for a new power shovel and ordered the city clerk to advertise for a reconditioned power shovel. The council believes, Dunlap states, a better deal can be made through another set of bids.

Jordan Bailey, Liberty street, charged before city council that trains on the P. R. R not only block the Mahoning avenue crossing but also that incessant ringing of bells, tooting of auto horns and blowing of engine whistles is intolerable. He asserted that the autoists blow their horns because the railroad trains block the crossings some times for 22 minutes. He had written the Public Ulitities commission and the commission had told him that were he to bring a complaint with the city and county joining in, the case would be adjudicated. The commission also stated the power to stop the alleged nuisance and blockade is within the police powers of the city. The complaint was referred to the city solicitor and mayor when council met in city hall Monday.

Speeding Work On New Super-Highway Contract Coitsville To New Bedford

YOUNGSTOWN, June 3. — Huge power equipment is moving thousands of tons of dirt these days on Route 422 near Coitsville as construction moves forward on the new super-highway being built from Coitsville Center to the Pennsylvania state line.

Begun last Oct. 11 by the Elmer O. Vogt Paving Co., of Massillon, the project, when completed by Oct. 31 of this year, will be the most modern section of state highway in Mahoning county.

"It's going to be one of the finest pieces of road in the district," Homer E. Anderson, of Ravenna, chief engineer of Division Four of the state highway department said here Friday while inspecting the work with George M. Montgomery, county resident engineer.

"It will eliminate most of the hazards that existed on the old road and make driving much safer."

Long-Distance Views

Virtually all of the old pavement is being removed in the change of grades which will provide a sight-distance of 1,500 feet at all points along the road. The maximum grade on the new road will be only 3.22 per cent compared with 5.04 per cent on the old road.

More than 108,000 cubic yards of earth are being shifted in order to provide the new grades. In one place it was necessary to make a cut about 11 feet deep; in another there is a fill of about 13 feet.

The finished roadway will be 64 feet in width and will have a 48-foot concrete pavement consisting of two 22-foot lanes divided by a four-foot center strip six inches above the regular pavement. The center line, however, will not be installed on about 2,500 feet of the section where the old pavement will be utilized.

Buildings Are Moved

The new road will be more than twice as wide as the old pavement which ranged in width from 18 to 20 feet.

In connection with widening the right-of-way, it was necessary to move six buildings and demolish a large barn. Five new culverts have been built and three others were repaired. In all more than 35,000 lineal feet of drainage pipe will be installed and 12,000 square feet of concrete sidewalk will be built.

The strip of road 2.748 miles in length will cost an estimated $260,635 of which $125,000 is being furnished by the federal government. The job is part of the state highway department's program of improving Route 422 from Cleveland to the Ohio-Pennsylvania line.

It is reported that the Pennsylvania highway department is contemplating an extension of the project from the Ohio line to a point south of New Bedford in order to eliminate several hazardous curves in New Bedford.

DOUGLAS, Wyo.—The highlight of the adventuresome and varied career of Johnny Mills, who recently celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday, was the time Calamity Jane bounced a pitcher "off my noggin."

Mills, one time barber for President "Teddy" Roosevelt, and Wild Bill Hickok, in relating his early-day experiences, loves to tell townsfolk here about the time when Calamity Jane came into his barbershop, in Laramie, Wyo., in 1878 and asked for a shampoo.

Calamity was bending over the wash basin rinsing her hair when a practical joker in the shop took a swing at her posterior. Calamity thought Mills did it, and, characteristic of her temper, she "slugged me on the noggin with a water pitcher." Mills can still show the spot on his head where the pitcher struck him.

Birds Come To Aid Of Another

Owen Fox Reports Battle Of Birds And Cat At Gaston Park

While eating his noon lunch, Saturday, at Gaston Park, Owen Fox heard quite a commotion and chattering among the birds near by. Looking out the door of his lodge, he espied a cat atop a house-wren box, which was fastened to the top of a narrow pole. The animal was watching its opportunity to "nab" one of the little birds on one of its many trips in and out the box. The feline had sprung on to the box from a nearby tree.

The wrens had put up a protesting chatter of alarm, which soon attracted the support of other birds in the vicinity. There were two brown thrashers, two cat birds, a wood thrush, and about a dozen sparrows in the flock.

The cat birds, more daring than the rest, darted repeatedly upon the feline, striking it, while the other birds, not so venturesome, circled about uttering bird calls, possibly meant as encouragement to the daring cat birds.

When Mr. Fox appeared and drove the cat away, all the birds left to attend to their own business, knowing the danger was over.

The house wren is not related to the birds above mentioned, nevertheless they did not hesitate to intervene when danger threatened their neighbor.
